

You've tried everything: Time-outs, Reward charts, counting to three, Punishments - Nothing works!

But there is hope, because you haven't tried this!

Positive Solutions for Families is an evidence-based, six-session family series developed by The Center on Social and Emotional Foundations for Early Learning (CSEFEL) at Vanderbilt University. The series offers families ideas and strategies to support healthy social and emotional development in children, while addressing behavioral issues and any mental health concerns.

Sign up for our next 6-session series held weekly on Sunday Mornings: 8AM-9:30AM

- Making Connections: July 10th
- Making it Happen: July 17th
- Why do Children do What They Do: July 24th
- Teach Me What to Do: August 7th
- Facing the Challenge Part 1: August 14th
- Facing the Challenge Part 2: August 24th

These sessions are based on the Pyramid Model for Supporting Social Emotional Competence in Children. Through conversations, videos, and lots of resources these sessions will help you better understand how your child develops and how you can have more positive interactions together.

This program is FREE and there are NO materials to be purchased! Just come as you are and learn some helpful tools for helping your child be the best that they can be!
